

Research and Clinical Trials Update Meeting

Thursday 5 September
5pm London, UK time

Around the world researchers and scientists are working to develop treatments for the challenges associated with Prader-Willi syndrome (PWS). Their work and our understanding of PWS advances by means of clinical trials, which allow potential new treatments and interventions to be tested for safety and efficacy.

IPWSO will be holding the 2024 Research and Clinical Trials Update on 5 September at 5pm London, UK time, on Zoom. This will feature presentations from companies who have ongoing, planned and recently concluded clinical trials.

Attendance is free but advance registration is required.
